

Alan K. Styles, Ph.D. is an Assistant Professor of Accounting at the College of Charleston, South Carolina. His research interests and publications are in the areas of international accounting, public interest accounting, accounting ethics, accounting education, and petroleum accounting.