

Call for Awards Nomination

2017 AIS Section Notable Contribution to the AIS Literature Awards

The Accounting Information Systems (AIS) Section of the American Accounting Association (AAA) seeks nominations for the 2017 Notable Contribution to the AIS Literature. Award winner will be honored with plaque presented at the AIS Section Business Meeting at the 2017 AAA Annual Meeting.

Criteria applicable to the award:

- Impact on accounting information systems research, theory, or practice communities.
- Relevance to and impact on the IS and/or accounting research and practice communities.
- Topical or methodological originality and innovation.
- Exceptional development of theory.
- Award will be granted only if the committee deems the research contribution meets criteria.
- The author of the work must be a member of the AIS Section of the AAA during the 2016-2017 academic year.
- The entry should not be simultaneously submitted for consideration for an award sponsored by any other section of the American Accounting Association.

Criteria to the Notable Contribution to the Literature Award:

- Consideration shall be given to peer-reviewed books, monographs, and journal articles on research topics and methods in the field of accounting information systems (broadly defined).
- Published journal articles may be in any journal.
- The work must have been published prior to December 31, 2015.

Nominations:

- Nomination must be made by an AAA AIS Section member; Self-nominations are encouraged.
- Nominating emails should include statements of the importance of the work and its current or potential impact on accounting information systems theory or practice.
- An electronic copy of the work must be provided.
- Submissions must be in either Word or pdf format; electronic submission only.
- Members of this year's Award Committee are not eligible.

Please send electronic nominations to the Notable Contribution to the AIS Literature Award Committee Chair, Professor Jagdish Pathak (<mailto:jagdish@uwindor.ca>)

DEADLINE FOR NOMINATIONS: March 31, 2017