Dear MAS members,

As the incoming Senior Editor of the Journal of Management Accounting Research (JMAR) for the 2019-2021 term, I am excited to announce the team of Editors that will serve during my term. They are a group of 13 strong researchers that are ready to work with you, current and future authors and referees, on publishing high quality and relevant management accounting research.

Continuing on JMAR’s promise to include diverse methodological perspectives, we have editors covering all methods used to address management accounting issues, and have wide geographical representation with 46% of the editors not based in the US. Furthermore, the incoming Editorial Board which are relied upon to do the bulk of the reviewing will, for the first time in JMAR’s history, consists of a majority of non-US based researchers. I will announce the incoming Editorial Board members at the Management Accounting Section’s midyear meeting in January.

The incoming editors are:
- Eddy Cardinaels, Katholieke Universiteit Leuven
- Mary-Ellen Carter, Boston College
- Willie Choi, University of Wisconsin-Madison
- Margaret Christ, University of Georgia
- Mirko Heinle, Wharton School
- Anne Lillis, University of Melbourne
- Michal Matejka, Arizona State University
- Brian Mittendorf, Ohio State University
- Sven Modell, University of Manchester
- Jason Schloetzer, Georgetown University
- Jae Yong Shin, Seoul National University
- Roland Speklé, Nyenrode Business Universiteit
- Dan Weiss, Tel Aviv University

Please join me in thanking the outgoing Senior Editor, Karen Sedatole, and her editorial team, for the fantastic work they have done. It will be my privilege to continue on JMAR’s great trajectory.

I look forward to seeing many of you in Fort Lauderdale.

Best,

Eva Labro
