

Thought Leaders in Accounting

AAA Home Page

Press Release for the 2014 AAA Award Winners

- AAA/Deloitte Wildman Medal Award
- AAA/Grant Thornton Doctoral Dissertation Award for Innovation in Accounting Education
- Accounting Horizons Best Paper Award
- Competitive Manuscript Award
- Distinguished Contribution to Accounting Literature Award
- Innovation in Accounting Education Award
- Issues in Accounting Education Best Paper Award
- Notable Contributions to Accounting Literature Award
- Outstanding Accounting Educator Award
- Outstanding Service Award

Each stained glass award is a one-of-a-kind, kiln formed, fused glass artwork. Each piece has been custom designed and hand crafted by Hungarian artist, Csaba Osvath.

Joseph F. Brazel, Tina D. Carpenter, and J. Gregory Jenkins receive the AAA/Deloitte Foundation 2014 Wildman Medal Award

Sarasota, FL, August 15, 2014 - The American Accounting Association (AAA) would like to congratulate Joseph F. Brazel, Tina D. Carpenter and J. Gregory Jenkins as recipients of the 2014 AAA/Deloitte Foundation 2014 Wildman Medal Award for their paper, "Auditors' Use of Brainstorming in the Consideration of Fraud: Reports from the Field" published in the July 2010 issue of The Accounting Review. This AAA award, which is sponsored by the Deloitte Foundation, was presented to each recipient in the form of a medal and monetary prize on Wednesday, August 6th at the 2014 AAA Annual Meeting held in Atlanta, Georgia.

Joseph F. Brazel is a Professor of Accounting at North Carolina State University where he is the Reznick Group Research Fellow and a University Faculty Scholar. His research focuses on fraud detection, professional skepticism, nonfinancial measures, investor use of fraud red flags, fraud brainstorming, and judgment and decision-making in auditing. He has published in The Accounting Review, the Journal of Accounting Research, and Contemporary Accounting Research. The FINRA Investor Education Foundation, the Institute of Management Accountants, the Institute of Internal Auditors, the Institute for Fraud Prevention, Ernst and Young, KMPG, the International Association for Accounting Education and Research, and North Carolina State University have all supplied him with grants to support his research. He has served on the AAA's Notable Contributions to the Accounting Literature Award Selection Committee, Competitive Manuscript Award Committee, and COSO Task Force. Prior to obtaining his Ph.D., he was an audit manager with Deloitte.

Tina D. Carpenter, PhD, CPA, is an Associate Professor of Accounting in the Terry College of Business at the University of Georgia. Tina's research investigates the prevention and detection of fraudulent financial reporting. She was awarded the AAA Auditing Section Outstanding Dissertation Award for her dissertation on fraud brainstorming. Three of her other papers have been awarded the AAA ABO Section Outstanding Manuscript. Tina was recently selected by the AAA and PCAOB to serve on a research team to synthesize fraud research. Her research contributes to theory and practice. As a result, Tina has been invited to serve on a fraud panel at the PCAOB, and her research has been cited by the PCAOB and SEC. Tina has been recognized for teaching excellence with awards at the department, college and university levels. Tina was recently interviewed by the United States Department of Defense for her expertise in fraud.

J. Gregory Jenkins, CPA, is Professor of Accounting & Information Systems and holds the Curling and William S. Gay Faculty Fellowships at Virginia Tech. He has published in Accounting, Organizations and Society, Accounting Horizons, Auditing: A Journal of Practice & Theory, Behavioral Research in Accounting, Current Issues in Auditing, Journal of Accountancy, Journal of Information Systems, The Accounting Review, and The CPA Journal. Greg currently serves as the co-editor of Current Issues in Auditing, the AAA Auditing Section's online journal. His recent professional activities include serving on the AICPA's Practice Monitoring of the Future Task Force and chairing the Virginia Accounting & Auditing Conference. Greg has also served on research task forces of the AAA's Auditing Section that provided research assistance to the PCAOB related to quality control standards and auditor independence. He previously worked as an auditor with Ernst & Young and McGladrey.

The Wildman Medal Award was founded in 1978 to commemorate John Wildman and to encourage research relevant to the professional practice of accounting to which much of Mr. Wildman's life was devoted. More information about this award is available online at <http://aaahq.org/awards/award1.htm>. For 2014, the AAA and the Deloitte Foundation are honored to be able to bestow this award to Joseph F. Brazel, Tina D. Carpenter, and J. Gregory Jenkins.

Top of Page

Braden Williams and Bachman P. Fulmer III receive the 2014 AAA/Grant Thornton Doctoral Dissertation Awards for Innovation in Accounting Education

Sarasota, FL, August 15, 2014 - The American Accounting Association (AAA) would like to congratulate Braden Williams and Bachman P. Fulmer III as recipients of the 2014 AAA/Grant Thornton Doctoral Dissertation Awards for Innovation in Accounting Education. These AAA awards, which are sponsored by Grant Thornton, were presented to each recipient in the form of a $5,000 prize on Wednesday, August 6th at the AAA 2014 Annual Meeting held in Atlanta, Georgia.

For 2014, the committee has chosen the following two award winners:

Braden Williams, University of Washington - Seattle
Income Shifting Potential and the Boundary of the International Firm

Bachman P. Fulmer III, Florida State University
Attention and Effort in an Investment Decision Under Influence of Gains and Losses

The AAA/Grant Thornton Doctoral Dissertation Awards for Innovation in Accounting Education were created to encourage innovation in accounting research starting at the doctoral level. In order to be considered for the award the student must demonstrate a substantial degree of innovation relative to the current state of a given area of accounting research. More information about this award is available online at <http://aaahq.org/awards/GTDocDiss.htm>. For 2014, the American Accounting Association and Grant Thornton are very proud to give this award to Braden Williams and Bachman P. Fulmer III for their exceptional work.

Top of Page

Guido L. Geerts, Lynford E. Graham, Elaine G. Mauldin, William E. McCarthy, and Vernon J. Richardson receive the AAA 2014 Accounting Horizons Best Paper Award

Sarasota, FL, August 15, 2014 - The American Accounting Association (AAA) would like to congratulate Guido L. Geerts, Lynford E. Graham, Elaine G. Mauldin, William E. McCarthy, and Vernon J. Richardson as recipients of the 2014 Accounting Horizons Best Paper Award for their article, "Integrating Information Technology into Accounting Research and Practice." This AAA award was presented to Professor Geerts, Dr. Graham, Dr. Mauldin, Professor McCarthy, and Professor Richardson in the form of a unique glass art piece and a $2,500 prize on Wednesday, August 6th at the 2014 AAA Annual Meeting held in Atlanta, Georgia.

Guido L. Geerts is a Professor and EY Faculty Scholar at the Lerner College of Business, University of Delaware. He earned his Ph.D. from the Free University of Brussels. He has published in a variety of accounting and information systems journals, including Accounting Horizons, Decision Support Systems, IEEE Intelligent Systems, International Journal of Accounting Information Systems, Journal of Emerging Technologies in Accounting, and Journal of Information Systems. He serves on several editorial boards and is currently guest editor for a special issue on Business Process Modeling (International Journal of Accounting Information Systems) and for a special issue on Enterprise Ontologies (Journal of Information Systems). Guido has twenty-seven years of teaching experience and previously taught at Michigan State University and the Free University of Brussels. He has received numerous awards for teaching and research excellence including the Lerner College Outstanding Scholar Award (2014), the Lerner College Outstanding Teacher Award (2013), and the SET Section's Outstanding Researcher Award (2010).

Lynford E. Graham is a CPA with more than 30 years of audit practice and policy development experience. He is a Visiting Professor of Accountancy at Bentley University in Waltham, MA. Dr. Graham is a member of the AICPA, and a past member of the Auditing Standards Board. He chaired the AICPA's Assessing Audit Risk Guide and the AICPA Audit Sampling Guide Task Forces. He was a Partner and the National Director of Audit Policy for BDO, LLP. Prior to that, Dr. Graham was an Associate Professor at Rutgers University. Before Rutgers, he was a National Accounting & SEC Consulting Partner at Coopers & Lybrand, responsible for technical issues research, auditing research and sampling. A Certified Fraud Examiner, in 2002 he received the Distinguished Service Award from the Auditing Section of the AAA. Dr. Graham holds an MBA and Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania, (Wharton School). He is editor of The Accountant's Handbook – 12th Edition (Wiley, 2012).

Elaine G. Mauldin is an Associate Professor and the BKD Professor in the Trulaske College of Business at the University of Missouri. Prior to obtaining her PhD, Elaine was V.P. Finance for a multi-state construction holding company. Professor Mauldin is a member of the American Accounting Association, American Institute of CPAs, the Institute of Internal Auditors, and the Information Systems Audit and Control Association. Elaine's primary research interests are auditing, governance and internal controls. In addition to Accounting Horizons she has published papers in a variety of academic journals including Journal of Accounting & Economics, The Accounting Review, Contemporary Accounting Research, and Accounting Organizations & Society. Elaine serves as an editor for The Accounting Review and as the AIS Section representative on the AAA Council. Elaine teaches accounting information systems, internal controls and auditing.

William E. McCarthy is a Professor of Accounting and Information Systems at Michigan State University. He teaches classes in enterprise information systems, object-oriented analysis and programming, advanced database design, and accounting interoperability. His research has been supported by multiple accounting and technology firms and by the National Science Foundation. During the 1980s, Professor McCarthy worked in the Artificial Intelligence Group of Accenture where he was part of a research team that analyzed the first uses of embedded semantics for the SEC's EDGAR system, and most recently, he has been especially active in international e-commerce standardization efforts with the United Nations and ISO. In 1999, Professor McCarthy was given the "Withrow Teacher-Scholar Award," the lifetime teaching award from the Broad College of Business, and in 2000, he was presented with the "Michigan State University Distinguished Faculty Award." In 2008, he was given the AAA "Outstanding Accounting Educator Award."

Vernon J. Richardson is the S. Robson Walton Chair and Distinguished Professor of Accounting at the Sam M. Walton College of Business at the University of Arkansas. He received his Ph.D. in accounting from the University of Illinois. He has served as editor of The Accounting Review and as associate editor of MIS Quarterly. He has published in The Accounting Review, the Journal of Accounting and Economics, Contemporary Accounting Research, MIS Quarterly, the Journal of Marketing and the Journal of Operations Management. His research is at the cross-section of accounting, finance and information systems and generally considers the financial antecedents and consequences of IT investments.

The Accounting Horizons Best Paper Award is presented to the best paper published each calendar year. The award winner is selected by online voting open to all Accounting Horizons subscribing members of the American Accounting Association. More information about this award is available online at http://aaahq.org/awards/AH_ISSBestPaper.htm. For 2014, the American Accounting Association is honored to be able to bestow this award to Professor Geerts, Dr. Graham, Dr. Mauldin, Professor McCarthy, and Professor Richardson.

Top of Page

Nemit Shroff receives the AAA 2014 Competitive Manuscript Award

Sarasota, FL, August 15, 2014 - The American Accounting Association (AAA) would like to congratulate Nemit Shroff as recipient of the 2014 Competitive Manuscript Award for his manuscript, "The Corporate Investment and Changes in GAAP." This AAA award was presented to Dr. Shroff in the form of a unique glass art piece on Wednesday, August 6th at the AAA 2014 Annual Meeting held in Atlanta, Georgia.

Nemit Shroff is an Assistant Professor at the MIT Sloan School of Management. His research focuses on the real effect of accounting disclosures on corporate investment and financing decisions. His work has won a number of awards including the FARS best dissertation award and the Ross School of Business Emeriti award. Further, his research has been published in leading academic journals, including Journal of Financial Economics, Journal of Accounting Research and The Accounting Review. Professor Shroff teaches Financial Accounting to undergraduate and MBA students, and a class on the real effects of accounting to Ph.D. students. He completed his doctoral studies at University of Michigan in 2011 under the supervision of Professors Michelle Hanlon and Russell Lundholm. During his doctoral studies, he was one of ten students across the country to be awarded the Deloitte Foundation's Doctoral Fellowship and was also invited to participate in the Deloitte Doctoral Consortium at Tahoe City.

The Competitive Manuscript Award was created to encourage research among AAA regular, life, and student members who have earned their Ph.D. within the past five years. The winner is chosen annually in a blind review by the AAA Competitive Manuscript Award Committee. More information about this award is available online at <http://aaahq.org/awards/award5.htm>. For 2014, the American Accounting Association is very proud to give this award to Nemit Shroff for his exceptional work.

Top of Page

Christian Leuz, Dhananjay Nanda, and Peter D. Wysocki receive the AAA 2014 Distinguished Contribution to Accounting Literature Award

Sarasota, FL, August 15, 2014 - The American Accounting Association (AAA) is pleased to announce that the 2014 Distinguished Contribution to Accounting Literature Award was given to Christian Leuz, Dhananjay Nanda, and Peter D. Wysocki for their work entitled, "Earnings management and investor protection: an international comparison" This AAA award was presented to Professors Leuz, Nanda, and Wysocki in the form of unique glass art pieces and a monetary prize on Tuesday, August 5th at the 2014 AAA Annual Meeting held in Atlanta, Georgia.

Christian Leuz, Joseph Sondheimer Professor of International Economics, Finance and Accounting at the University of Chicago's Booth School of Business. He is also a Co-Director of the Initiative on Global Markets, a Research Associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research and a Fellow at the European Corporate Governance Institute, Wharton's Financial Institution Center, Goethe University's Center for Financial Studies, and in the CESifo Research Network. His research examines the role of corporate disclosures, accounting transparency and disclosure regulation in capital markets, corporate governance and corporate financing. His work has been published in the top accounting and finance journals and has received several awards and honors, including the Humboldt Research Award in 2012, the 2011 Wildman Medal Award, as well as a JFE All-Star-Paper Award. Professor Leuz is an editor for the Journal of Accounting Research and has served on many editorial boards. Born in Germany, he earned his doctoral degree and "Habilitation" at Goethe University Frankfurt.

Dhananjay (DJ) Nanda is a Professor of Accounting and Academic Director for the EMBA for the Americas program at the University of Miami School of Business. DJ Nanda received his MS and Ph.D. in Management from the William E. Simon Graduate School of Business, University of Rochester. He teaches Management Accounting, and Compensation Incentive and Strategic Control in the MBA program, and the Empirical Accounting Research Seminar in the doctoral program. DJ's research examines the incentive aspects of performance evaluation and compensation systems as they relate to corporate financial reporting and disclosure activities. His research has been presented at numerous universities, international and national conferences and has been published in the Journal of Accounting and Economics, Journal of Accounting Research, The Accounting Review, Review of Accounting Studies, the Journal of Financial Economics, and the Journal of Operations Management. He currently serves on the editorial boards of Contemporary Accounting Research and Journal of Management Accounting Research.

Peter Wysocki is a Professor of Accounting and the Director of the International Financial Reporting Institute at the University of Miami School. His research interests include the links between the institutions of market economies, international accounting, and the disclosures of U.S. and international firms. His widely-cited research has been published in the Journal of Accounting and Economics, the Journal of Accounting Research, Contemporary Accounting Research, the Journal of Financial Economics, and Accounting Horizons. Prior to joining the University of Miami, he was an associate professor at the MIT Sloan School of Management and an assistant professor at the University of Michigan Business School. He is an associate editor for the Journal of Accounting and Economics and also serves on the editorial board of the Journal of Accounting Research. He received his undergraduate degree from Queen's University (Canada), his MA in economics from the University of British Columbia, and his MS and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Rochester.

The Distinguished Contribution to Accounting Literature Award was created to recognize accounting research of exceptional merit that has significantly impacted the discipline over a period of at least five years. More information about this award is available online at http://aaahq.org/awards/DCAL_Award.htm. For 2014, the AAA is honored to be able to bestow this award to Professors Leuz, Nanda, and Wysocki.

Top of Page

Ellen J. Glazerman, Leslie C. Knowlton, Lisa Koonce, Samuel R. Leno, David N. Moss, Dan Roam, Julie Smith David, Tracey E. Sutherland, Mikel G. Tiller, Carolyn R. Wilson and G. Peter Wilson receive the AAA, Ernst & Young Foundation-sponsored 2014 Innovation in Accounting Education Award

Sarasota, FL, August 15, 2014 - The American Accounting Association (AAA) is pleased to announce that the 2014 Innovation in Accounting Education Award was given to Ellen J. Glazerman, Leslie C. Knowlton, Lisa Koonce, Samuel R. Leno, David N. Moss, Dan Roam, Julie Smith David, Tracey E. Sutherland, Mikel G. Tiller, Carolyn R. Wilson and G. Peter Wilson for their work "This is Accounting." This AAA award, which is sponsored by the Ernst & Young Foundation, was presented to Glazerman, Knowlton, Koonce, Leno, Moss, Roam, Smith David, Sutherland, Tiller and the Wilsons in the form of a unique glass art piece and a monetary prize on Monday, August 4th at the 2014 AAA Annual Meeting held in Atlanta, Georgia.

Ellen J. Glazerman is the Executive Director of the Ernst & Young Foundation, and Director of University Relations, Americas for EY (formerly Ernst & Young). She also supports a variety of initiatives within the firm's Office of Public Policy, Global Diversity and Inclusiveness. Formerly the Americas Director of Campus Recruiting for EY, she joined Ernst & Young LLP in May of 1993 as the Director of the Ernst & Young Foundation. In 1996, Ellen assumed responsibility for the firm's campus recruiting efforts in support of the assurance and tax practices for Ernst & Young. Ellen is a member of the Board of Directors for the Graduate Management Admission Council, a member of the Board of Advisors for the Leventhal School of Accounting, and the Haas School of Business' Center for Financial Reporting. She is a Commissioner for the profession's Pathways in Accounting initiatives. Ellen is Past-Chair of the Forte Foundation Board of Directors, a not-for-profit dedicated to "inspiring women business leaders."

Leslie C. Knowlton, Partner at Deloitte & Touche LLP, assists clients in a variety of technical and operational accounting areas, including financial reporting assistance for public offerings and divestitures/spin-offs, general ledger analyses, financial close process automation projects, and specialist support on financial statement audits with respect to commodity risk management and trading practices. She is widely regarded as a trusted advisor with a cross-disciplinary perspective, demonstrated business acumen and industry knowledge. In addition to serving her clients, Leslie also leads Talent Development for Deloitte. Under her direction, learning and development at Deloitte are aligned with the organization's business priorities and designed to anticipate the evolving needs of clients and professionals operating in today's rapidly changing marketplace. A passionate believer in the power of learning and culture to deliver business value, Leslie champions an inclusive, strengths-based approach to developing leaders today for the workplace of tomorrow.

Lisa Koonce is the Deloitte & Touche Chair in Accounting at the University of Texas at Austin. She received her PhD degree in accounting from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in 1990. Professor Koonce's research interests are in financial reporting. She has published her research in journals such as The Accounting Review, Journal of Accounting Research, Journal of Accounting and Economics, and Contemporary Accounting Research. Professor Koonce currently serves on the editorial boards of The Accounting Review, Journal of Accounting Research, and Journal of Behavioral Finance. At the University of Texas, Professor Koonce teaches financial accounting in both the undergraduate and graduate business programs. She is the recipient of numerous teaching awards, including The University of Texas Regents Award and the Academic of Distinguished Teachers award.

Samuel R. Leno is currently a member of the Boards of Omnicare (Audit Committee), Lantheus Medical Imaging (Chair of Audit Committee), Zest Dental (Chairman of the Board and Chair of the Audit Committee), and Endotronix. He is also a member of the Advisory Board of the Harvard Business School Healthcare Initiative. Mr. Leno retired as the Chief Operations Officer of Boston Scientific at the end of 2011. Prior to this and during his 40 + year business career, he has held the positions of Chief Financial Officer for 5 public companies, including Boston Scientific, Zimmer Holdings, Arrow Electronics, Corporate Express and Coram Healthcare. During the first 24 years of his career, he held a number of financial positions with increasing responsibility for Baxter International and American Hospital Supply Corporation. Before beginning his business career, Mr. Leno was a Lieutenant in the U.S. Navy and is a Vietnam veteran. He earned his undergraduate degree in Accounting from Northern Illinois University and his MBA from Roosevelt University.

David N. Moss is the Global Sales CAO for Citi Investor Services. In this role, David leads the development and execution of a global, multi-product sales and client service strategy. Since joining Citi in 2011, David has served in a variety of relationship management and business strategy roles, including as Head of NA Client Strategy and as Head of EMEA Business Advisory. David was previously a consultant with McKinsey & Company, where he counselled financial institutions on growth strategy, client service strategy, sales force effectiveness and organizational design. David began his career with J.P. Morgan Alternative Asset Management and has also spent time with Banc of America Securities. David graduated Cum Laude from Harvard Law School and received his Bachelors of Science in Finance with High Distinction and Honors from the Kelley School of Business at Indiana University. David served as Treasurer of the Kelley School of Business Alumni Association and as Chair for the Alumni Association Fund. David enjoys spending time with his family, cooking, traveling and racing bicycles.

Dan Roam is the author of three international bestsellers "The Back of the Napkin" (named by Fast Company, The London Times, and Business Week as 'Creativity Book of the Year'), "Blah Blah Blah," and most recently, "Show and Tell: How Everyone Can Make Extraordinary Presentations" – just named Amazon's top 20 business book of the year. As President of Digital Roam Inc, Dan has helped leaders at Deloitte, Google, Microsoft, Boeing, eBay, Kraft, Gap, IBM, the US Navy, the United States Senate, and the White House solve complex problems with simple pictures. Dan's "American Health Care on the Back of a Napkin" was voted by Business Week as the world's greatest presentation of 2009. Dan and his whiteboard appear frequently on CNN, MSNBC, ABC, CBS, Fox, and NPR.

Julie Smith David is currently the Chief Innovation Officer at the American Accounting Association. Prior to joining AAA in 2011, she was an Associate Professor in the W. P. Carey School of Business at Arizona State University, the Director of the Center for Advancing Business through IT (CABIT), and the Editor-in-Chief of the AAACOMMONS. Her research has focused on enterprise applications, their design, and how they can provide value to companies adopting them and has been published in journals including Management Science, Communications of the ACM, and the Journal of Information Systems. In her AAA role, Julie works extensively with the Publications, Technology and Finance teams. Current projects include working with the Publication Ethics Task Force to develop new policies that specify our cultural norms, coordinating a web redesign project to help the Association communicate more broadly, and supporting the Pathways Commission as they focus on implementing the recommendations, such as working with the team to develop the Vision of Accounting model.

Tracey E. Sutherland, Executive Director of the American Accounting Association (AAA), supports the organization's mission to bring together the academic community to further accounting education and research and to advance the discipline and profession of Accounting. She has been an integral part of the Sharpening Our Vision project which focuses on how our mission in academia, including faculty roles, are changing in the face of our ever changing and expanding world. As Executive Director, Tracey is ensuring that the AAA maintains its mission of being "Thought Leaders in Accounting." After earning her baccalaureate degree from Stetson University, Tracey taught and worked in administration at Auburn University, Saint Louis University and Florida State University where she earned her Ph.D. before becoming Director of Faculty Development at Truman State University prior to her work at the American Accounting Association. She has been with the AAA since 1997.

Mikel G. Tiller joined the faculty of the Kelley School in 1986. He has taught courses in financial, managerial, governmental, international and behavioral accounting in the undergraduate, MBA, and Ph.D. programs, as well as executive education in the U.S. and abroad. He served as Chair of the Department of Accounting, and the Department of Accounting and Information Systems. Professor Tiller has also held several leadership positions in the American Accounting Association and with not-for-profit and other boards, and serves as a member of the Pathways Commission. His consulting experience includes systems design, performance evaluation, compensation, project evaluation, cost and control systems, and benchmarking. A winner of numerous teaching awards, his research appears in several academic and professional journals. Professor Tiller received B.A. and B.S. degrees at Carson-Newman College and his MBA and Doctorate in Accounting at Indiana University.

Carolyn R. Wilson is a lecturer at Boston College, CEO of NavAcc LLC, and author with her husband, Pete, of Navigating Accounting®, a free multimedia website that provides a foundation for understanding, preparing, and using accounting information. Its content seeks to integrate research, teaching, and practice; procedural and conceptual skills; and the interplay between a reporting entity's business and accounting decisions and decisions by users of its accounting reports. Carolyn has held numerous senior management positions. Her corporate experience at Hewlett-Packard and Agilent Technologies includes leadership roles in accounting; sales and marketing; service; quality; and business development. In these positions, Carolyn was recognized for her success in building global teams, leveraging broad business experiences, and deploying innovative approaches to increase revenue, profit, and customer satisfaction. To her role as author, Carolyn also brings her entrepreneurial experience at an and her classroom experience as an elementary-school teacher.

G. Peter Wilson is the Joseph L. Sweeney Chair of Accounting at Boston College and served on faculties at Lake-Sumter Community College, Carnegie-Mellon University, Stanford University, Harvard University, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Pete has given over 250 speeches and taught courses for two Fortune-50 companies. He and his wife, Carolyn, are creating Navigating Accounting®, a free multimedia website that provides a foundation for understanding, preparing, and using accounting information. Pete is a recipient of the following awards: AAA's Competitive Manuscript, AAA's Outstanding Educator, AICPAs' Distinguished Achievement in Accounting Education, Distinguished Teaching at Stanford Business School, Teacher of the Year at Sloan School of Management, and Teaching with New Media at Boston College. He served on Accounting Education Change Commission, Pathways Commission Vision for Accounting Education Committee, and Editorial Boards of The Accounting Review, Journal of Accounting Research, and Issues in Accounting Education. He was President of the AAA, 2002-2003.

The annual Innovation in Accounting Education Award is intended to encourage innovation and improvement in accounting education, and submissions are judged by their innovation, demonstrated educational benefits, and adaptability by other academic institutions or to other situations. More information about this award is available online at <http://aaahq.org/awards/award6.htm>. For 2014, the American Accounting Association and the Ernst & Young Foundation are very pleased to give this award to Ellen J. Glazerman, Leslie C.

Knowlton, Lisa Koonce, Samuel R. Leno, David N. Moss, Dan Roam, Julie Smith David, Tracey E. Sutherland, Mikel G. Tiller, Carolyn R. Wilson and G. Peter Wilson.

Top of Page

Timothy J. Fogarty and Gregory A. Jonas receive 2014 Issues in Accounting Education Best Paper Award

Sarasota, FL, August 15, 2014 - The American Accounting Association (AAA) is pleased to congratulate Timothy J. Fogarty and Gregory A. Jonas as co-recipients of the Issues in Accounting Education Best Paper Award for their paper, "Author Characteristics for Major Accounting Journals: Differences among Similarities 1989-2009." This AAA award was presented to the authors in the form of a unique glass art piece and a $2,500 prize on Wednesday, August 6th at the 2014 AAA Annual Meeting held in Atlanta, Georgia.

Timothy J. Fogarty is a professor in the accountancy department and the Thomas M. Dickerson Faculty Fellow at the Weatherhead School of Management, Case Western Reserve University. Before coming to Case Western, he taught at Penn State University and in the University of North Carolina system. He has published over two hundred articles on a wide variety of topics, in both academic and practitioner journals. His research interests include accounting education, the sociology of business organizations, and the regulation of professionals. He serves on the editorial boards of over twenty journals, including several outside the U.S. He has served in several capacities at the national level for the American Accounting Association, including President of the Public Interest Section, President of the Accounting, Behavior and Organizations Section and Chair of the Teaching & Curriculum Section. He is the newly elected Vice President-Education for the AAA Board of Directors (2014-2017). He previously served as department chair and associate dean.

Gregory A. Jonas, Ph.D., CMA, is an Associate Professor of Accountancy in the Weatherhead School of Management at Case Western Reserve University. He teaches graduate courses centered on financial statement analysis and research methods. Greg received a 2013 Faculty Teaching Excellence award and a 2014-2015 Glennan Fellowship for teacher/scholars. He currently serves on the Institute of Management Accountants' research foundation as the Committee Chair-Research Proposals. The portion of his research related to accounting education appears in journals such as Issues in Accounting Education, the Journal of Accounting Education, Critical Perspectives on Accounting, and Behaviour & Information Technology.

The Issues in Accounting Education Best Paper Award is presented to the best paper published each calendar year. The award winner is selected by online voting open to all Issues in Accounting Education subscribing members of the AAA. More information about this award is available online at http://aaahq.org/awards/AH_ISSBestPaper.htm. For 2014, the American Accounting Association is honored to be able to bestow this award on Professors Fogarty and Jonas.

Top of Page

S. P. Kothari, Susan Shu, and Peter D. Wysocki receive the AAA 2014 Notable Contributions to Accounting Literature Award

Sarasota, FL, August 15, 2014 - The American Accounting Association (AAA) would like to congratulate S.P. Kothari, Susan Shu, and Peter D. Wysocki as the recipients of the 2014 Notable Contributions to Accounting Literature Award for their work entitled, "Do Managers Withhold Bad News?" This AAA award, which is sponsored by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA), was presented in the form of a unique glass art piece and a $2,500 prize on Tuesday, August 5th at the 2014 AAA Annual Meeting held in Atlanta, Georgia.

S.P. Kothari is Deputy Dean, overseeing Faculty Affairs and International Programs, and Gordon Y. Billard Professor of Management at the MIT Sloan School of Management, as well as Director of the MIT-India Program. He served as Global Head of Equity Research for Barclays Global Investors from 2008-09. Previously, he was Deputy Dean and earlier was Head of the Department of Economics, Finance, and Accounting at MIT Sloan. His highly cited research focuses on financial reporting and valuation, asset allocation, explaining the diversity in international accounting practices, use of employee stock options for compensating executives, accounting for employee stock options, evaluating investment performance, and corporate uses of derivatives for hedging and speculation. Kothari has been an editor of the world-renowned Journal of Accounting & Economics for 17 years. He has written numerous editorials as an expert on economic policy issues in India and has consulted extensively for many large global corporations.

Susan Shu is an associate professor in Accounting at the Carroll School of Management at Boston College. She received her PhD from the University of Rochester. Her research interests include corporate disclosure policy, security litigation under U.S. securities laws, initial public offerings, measurement of cost of capital, and economics of auditor-client alignments. Her research has appeared in leading academic journals such as Journal of Accounting and Economics, Journal of Accounting Research, and Journal of Financial Economics.

Peter D. Wysocki is a Professor of Accounting and the Director of the International Financial Reporting Institute at the University of Miami School. His research interests include the links between the institutions of market economies, international accounting, and the disclosures of U.S. and international firms. His widely-cited research has been published in the Journal of Accounting and Economics, the Journal of Accounting Research, Contemporary Accounting Research, the Journal of Financial Economics, and Accounting Horizons. Prior to joining the University of Miami, he was an associate professor at the MIT Sloan School of Management and an assistant professor at the University of Michigan Business School. He is an associate editor for the Journal of Accounting and Economics and also serves on the editorial board of the Journal of Accounting Research. He received his undergraduate degree from Queen's University (Canada), his MA in economics from the University of British Columbia, and his MS and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Rochester.

The Notable Contributions to Accounting Literature Award is given annually to that work which has withstood a rigorous process of screening and scrutiny based on certain criteria, such as originality, breadth of potential interest, soundness of methodology, and potential impact on accounting education. More information about this award is available online at <http://aaahq.org/awards/nominat3.htm>. For 2014, the American Accounting Association and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants are very pleased to give this award to S.P. Kothari, Susan Shu, and Peter D. Wysocki.

Top of Page

Wayne R. Landsman and John C. Fellingham receive AAA, PricewaterhouseCoopers Foundation-sponsored 2014 Outstanding Accounting Educator Award

Sarasota, FL, August 15, 2014 - The American Accounting Association (AAA) is very pleased to congratulate Wayne R. Landsman and John C. Fellingham, recipients of the 2014 Outstanding Accounting Educator Award. This AAA award, which is sponsored by the PricewaterhouseCoopers Foundation, was presented to Doctor Landsman and Professor Fellingham in the form of a unique glass art piece, a citation, and a $2,500 prize for each recipient. There is also an additional $2,500 donation given to the AAA on behalf of each recipient which will be used according to both Doctor Landsman's and Professor Fellingham's wishes. This award was presented on Monday, August 4th at the 2014 AAA Annual Meeting held in Atlanta, Georgia.

Wayne R. Landsman is the KPMG Distinguished Professor of Accounting and Associate Dean of the PhD Program at the University of North Carolina Kenan-Flagler Business School. Dr. Landsman chaired the top-ranked accounting area at UNC Kenan-Flagler from 1991-98. His work on pensions, employee stock options, asset securitization, and fair value accounting has been published in leading scholarly and professional journals. He received his PhD, MBA and MS from Stanford University, and his AB magna cum laude in economics from Princeton University. He received the AAA 1985 Wildman Medal Award, the 2012 Notable Contribution Award, and the 2000, 2008, and 2014 Financial Accounting and Reporting Section (FARS) Best Paper Award. He served as FARS president in 1996-97 and as a member of the AAA Doctoral Consortium Committee in 2013 and 2014, which he chaired in 2014. He also served on the Financial Accounting Standards Advisory Council from 1998-2001. In addition to the 2014 Outstanding Accounting Educator Award, Dr. Landsman received the 2014 Financial Accounting and Reporting Section Best Paper Award for his paper "Earnings Transparency and Cost of Capital" (with Mary Barth and Yaniv Konchitchki), published in the Journal of Accounting and Economics.

John C. Fellingham has written papers about accounting and information that emphasize multiple people, multiple tasks, and especially, multiple periods. He views accounting as an information science, and the double entry code as well designed to perform tasks in an information environment. He is a fan and supporter of the Ohio State pistol and rifle teams. An annual intercollegiate athletic competition, the Fellingham Buckeye Open Rifle Match, is named after him. His undergraduate degree is from Stanford and graduate degrees from UCLA. He has held faculty positions at a number of Universities including Texas, Stanford, UCLA, Iowa, Yale, Florida, and Ohio State.

The general criteria for the Outstanding Accounting Educator Award are based on contributions to accounting education from scholarly endeavors in teaching and research over a sustained period of time. More information about this award is available online at <http://aaahq.org/awards/nominat4.htm>. For 2014, the American Accounting Association and the PricewaterhouseCoopers Foundation are very pleased to give this award to Wayne R. Landsman and John C. Fellingham.

Top of Page

Gail Hoover King and Martha M. Eining receive the AAA 2014 Outstanding Service Award

Sarasota, FL, August 15, 2014 - The American Accounting Association (AAA) is very proud to congratulate Gail Hoover King and Martha M. Eining as recipients of the 2014 AAA Outstanding Service Award. This AAA award, which may be awarded at any time by the Board of Directors, was presented in the form of unique glass art pieces to Dr. Hoover King and Dr. Eining on Tuesday, August 5th at the 2014 AAA Annual Meeting held in Atlanta, Georgia.

Gail Hoover King has been a Professor of Accounting at Purdue University Calumet since 2010. Prior to joining the faculty at Purdue she was a professor and division chair at Rockhurst University where she also had served as assistant dean. She was the recipient of the School of Management's Outstanding Teacher Award. She earned her doctorate at Northern Illinois University and a master's and bachelor's from the University of Kansas. Preceding her academic career, Gail was a financial accountant for Nicor Gas Company and managerial accountant and assistant financial analyst for a Dyrotech Industries, Inc. (now Klemlite). Her scholarship focuses on student learning, pedagogical innovation, and assessment. Her professional service includes co-chairing the Pathways Commission on Accounting Higher Education Recommendation 4, chair and member of American Accounting Association's Regions Pilot Task Force, Vice President of Teaching Learning and Curriculum Section of the American Accounting Association, and serving as a member on the AICPA's Pre-certification Education Executive Committee (PcEEC). Previously, she has served as the American Accounting Association's Director of Section and Regions, chair of the Regions Strategic Task Force and member of AAA's Governance Task Force and Branding Task Force, Teaching Learning and Curriculum Section's Strategy Committee, Council Representative at Large, and President of the Midwest Region.

Martha M. Eining, David Eccles Professor, is the Director of Accounting Programs at The University of Utah. She received her Ph.D. from Oklahoma State University and her undergraduate and MBA from Fort Hays State University. Dr. Eining has published in various journals, including Contemporary Accounting Research, Auditing: A Journal of Practice and Theory, and Journal of Information Systems. Her research interests include professional skepticism, management fraud, and non-profit governance. She was named Accounting Educator of the Year by the Women's Society of CPAs in 2012 and Utah Accounting Educator of the Year in 2009. She has also received research, teaching and /or service awards from the University of Utah and the AAA. Dr. Eining served as Grant Thornton's first National Professor in Residence. She has also served as a consultant to the KPMG Audit Research Group. She was a board member and chair of the audit committee for First Electronic Bank and has been active in the AAA and in community service.

The Outstanding Service Award recognizes outstanding services to the Association other than educational and research contributions. The prestigious award is intended only for rare events or milestones achieved. More information about this award is available at <http://aaahq.org/awards/award7.htm>. For 2014, the American Accounting Association is extremely pleased to be able to bestow this award on Gail Hoover King and Martha M. Eining in honor of their dedicated service to the education and practice of accounting.

Top of Page

Last year's winners

Back

© 2014 American Accounting Association All rights reserved.