In-Person and Webinar

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

The Center for Corporate Reporting and Governance (CCRG) at California State University, Fullerton, is pleased to announce the 20th Haskell & White Conference, scheduled for Thursday, September 19, 2024. This conference offers opportunities for academics to interact with each other, receive valuable feedback on their work, and connect with industry professionals. We welcome papers from current PhD students. There is no specific theme or topics the papers must encompass, but spotlight consideration will be given to papers discussing ESG. For reference, you can access the agenda from the previous conference here.

Please note that the 22nd Annual SEC “Hot Topics” conference is scheduled for the following day, September 20, 2024. This event provides updates directly from regulators at the SEC and FASB on current developments and is typically attended by board members, C-suite executives, and accounting professionals. All academics participating in the Haskell & White Conference are invited to attend the SEC conference at no charge.

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

The deadline for submissions is July 20, 2024. Please submit your papers to ccrg@fullerton.edu. Authors of accepted papers will be informed by the second week of August 2024.

There is no registration fee for the Haskell & White Academic Conference. If you wish to attend the conference without a paper submission, please RSVP by emailing ccrg@fullerton.edu by September 6, 2024.

ABOUT THE CENTER FOR CORPORATE REPORTING & GOVERNANCE

Part of the College of Business and Economics at California State University, Fullerton and housed within the School of Accountancy, the CCRG was created in 2003 to address corporate reporting and governance issues facing companies and their auditors in the changing financial environment. The CCRG is a premier resource for financial reporting and corporate governance in Orange County, California. Its annual SEC Conference in September features leading experts from the SEC, FASB, and PCAOB and attracts over 500 corporate board members and accounting professionals.
