

2013 Call for Nominations for IS Section Awards

The Information Systems (IS) Section of the American Accounting Association (AAA) seeks nominations for the 2013 Notable Contribution to the AIS Literature and the 2013 Outstanding Dissertation Awards. Award winners will be honored with a plaque presented at the IS Section Business Meeting, 2013 AAA Annual Meeting.

Criteria for Either Award

- Impact on accounting information systems research, theory, or practice communities.
- Relevance to and impact on the IS and/or accounting research and practice communities.
- Topical or methodological originality and innovation.
- Exceptional development of theory.
- Awards will be granted only if the committee deems the research contribution meets criteria.

Consideration Requirements: Contribution to the Literature Award

- Consideration shall be given to peer-reviewed books, monographs, and journal articles on research topics and methods in the field of accounting information systems (broadly defined).
- Published journal articles may be in any journal.
- The work must have been published prior to December 31, 2012.
- At least one of the authors of the work must be a current member of the IS Section of the AAA.

Consideration Requirements: Outstanding Dissertation Award

- The dissertation must have been defended no earlier than January 30, 2011 but no later than January 30, 2013.
- At the time of submission, the author must be a current member of the IS Section of the AAA.
- The entry should not be simultaneously submitted for consideration for a dissertation award sponsored by other sections of the American Accounting Association.

Nominations:

- Nomination must be made by an AAA IS Section member; Self-nominations are encouraged.
- Nominating emails should include statements of the importance of the work and its current or potential impact on accounting information systems theory or practice.
- An electronic copy of the work must be provided. For the Outstanding Dissertation Award, a working paper that meets the criteria for submission to JIS should be provided.
- Submissions must be in either Word or pdf format; electronic submission only.
- Members of this year's Award Committee are not eligible.
