

Monte Swain, Brigham Young University (retired)
Recipient, 2025 AAA Management Accounting Section
Lifetime Contribution to Management Accounting Award

Monte Swain, Ph.D., CPA, CMA, CGMA

Monte Swain is recently retired as the Deloitte Professor in the School of Accountancy at Brigham Young University. He has researched and taught management accounting at BYU since graduating from Michigan State University in 1991. He is published in scholarly and practitioner journals, authors textbooks in management accounting, and consults on the effective use of strategic measurement systems.

Through his career, Monte has been the recipient of a number of teaching awards, including the Brummet Distinguished Award for Management Accounting Educators from the Institute of Management Accountants (2016) and the MBA Core Professor of the Year at BYU (2021). He has served in advisory roles for the IMA, AICPA, and CIMA.

Over the years Monte has served in various roles with the American Accounting Association, specifically with the Management Accounting Section, the Teaching, Learning and Curriculum Section, the AAA Council, and the AAA Executive Committee.
